With indifference to our Needs and we cannot afford to let our Wants go unfilled. Little Things make the Big Sum of Life. Little Needs, if neglected, become the Great Necessities of after years, and Little Wants not satisfied

To begin right at the Start, for we are all more or less handicapped in the Steeplechase of Existence, we should not be Backward about felling people what we Want. As the Irishman says, "Don't be backward about coming for-ward." That's what the Policeman advises also-only be tells us to "Move On"-and when the M. P. (not Member of Parliament, merely Metropolitan Policeman) gives es a remedy for our troubles, it's supposed to cure us, or backward we go to his Starring Point, which is the Station.

But that's not the Station in Life we want to reach, so we've got to move forward and keep moving. Every Day is Moving Day in the World of Progress, and we must mount the old Steed and get over the hurdles at once.

Anything we want we should have, provided it is within reason and legitimate reach, and we will get it if we go about it the right way. Suppose, for instance, we (we have assumed the right to use the editorial "we" here) are a business man and want a clerk, a bookkeeper, a salesman, an office boy, a porter or even a partner with plenty of money, we know that the easiest and surest way to fill that want is to advertise it. And, quite naturally, when we want to give it the widest publicity, we use the newspaper in St. Louis that has the largest circulation, the largest want ad" patronage and the best record for filling wants.

Therefore, we use The Republic. Vice versa, if we don't harpen to be a business man, but do happen to want a job as a salesman, clerk, bookkeeper, porter, partner, etc., etc., we advertise in The Republic, where the greatest number of employers are sure to see our want and an-

Advertising in The Republic is a good rule-for it works both ways-and without it we simply cannot move forward in the business world-we can't do anything without it-grow to Mighty Opportunities Overlooked-which is why WE MUST ACT while it is yet Time-why we must act
